REVISED ZONING CODE PROPOSED

Changes In Ordinance Recommended By Committee

> Seven recommendations pertaining to the Escanaba zoning ordinances have been made by the city planning and zoning committee and have been submitted to the city council.

> Thursday evening the council authorized City Manager A. V. Aronson to procure estimates of costs of engaging a technical advisor on city planning and the establishment of a modern building code, one of the recommendations made by the committee.

The recommendations follow: 1. That an ordinance be adopted amending the present zoning ordinance which will provide in the future erection of residential property that no residence be erected on a 40 foot lot without having eight feet on either side to the property line, and that no residence be erected on a 50 foot lot without having eight feet on either side to the property line; and also that on 40 lots there be a building area of 5,000 square feet, and on 50 foot lots there be a building area of 6,000 square feet. This applies to the individual lot where the property on either side has a permanent residence or building. That any future residential building shall conform as nearly as possible and be typical of the buildings already in the block.

That on corner lots the buildings must be at least 15 feet from the side property line.

3. That where there are two or more undeveloped lots adjoining each other, the restrictions shall be 10 feet on a 50 foot lot, 8 feet on a 40 foot lot, and the minimum building area space shall be 6,000 feet, irrespective of the size of the

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington-The other day I wrote something about poorly paid school teachers of Pennsylvania, a state in which I used to live. Today I want to write something about the schools of Maryland, a state in which I live now. Some people may think that I am hipped on the question of schools. But to me they are one of the greatest bulwarks of the nation. They are as much responsible for the intelligence and idealism of the American people as any other institution. We annot stand by and see them neglected.

However, I live in a county which appears to believe in educational neglect. That county happens to be one of the wealthiest in the world. Thousands of people commute daily from the District of Columbia into Maryland, people who help to run the government of the United States, who should believe in good education.

Yet the school in my part of the county would put to shame some of the schools in war-famished Europe. Classrooms are overcrowded. Some of the kids have to study in the halls. Teachers are so overworked and harassed that discipline is almost impossible.

The other day a group of citizens met in the western part of Montgomery county-as citizens do everywhere-to complain about various things which the county government hadn't done but which the citizens thought should be done. Among other things they complained, quite properly, about the Potomac school.

-ROADS VS. SCHOOLS-

The answer, given by one of the county officials, was that building costs were too high. Therefore, an addition to the school would have to wait until building costs went down. Almost in the same breath, however, county officials announced to the assembled citizenry that the road which passes in front of the school would finally be made over new. This brought loud cheers from everyone.

However, the cost of the new road is going to be $130,000; and for one-half that YOUR INFORMATION SERVICE amount a new addition to the schoolhouse What do you want to know? We | could be built. And although costs are high

Mrs. James Downing, of Arbuttinction of being a great, great grandmother. The two-year-old great great grandchild is Milan Charles, son of the late Francis Faulkner, who died recently in Italy and whose funeral occurred Monday. "There aren't many great great grandmothers who drive their own car," she says justly proud of this accomplishment. Then she added, "I think I am most proud and happy of the fine neighbors who have been very good to me and to Mr. Downing since my great grandson died.'

He was right pleased with his feat of matching his friend Bob Deo's 42-40 the other day and is right on top of his game. In fact, just last Wednesday evening, he was two under par for the first five holes at Gladtsone when he meets Henry E. Hathaway on the public thoroughfare. He was that sure of at least a par round.

Marquette will send 15, including the 1940 champion, Bob Berry, and the current threat, young Bill Connors, who last Sunday fired a record-breaking 66 on the Marquette course.

Another Ishpeming par-shooter is Bill Farm, who is about the same build as Escanaba's Elmer Swanson and swings a good deal like him, free, easy and with plenty of whip action.
